

Minnetonka Review

In just four issues, Minnetonka Review is off to a fantastic start! Support from the literary community has been overwhelming. We are proud to promote the fiction, essays, and poetry of our writers by publishing them in one of the most attractive journals in the country. We've been garnering exceptional press and reviews and the work we've published has earned national acclaim. We'd like to invite you to come along for the ride.

- NewPages.com's Sima Rabinowitz writes: "Prolific poet Philip Dacey's poem 'My Bill Holm Story,' which opens the Review is not atypical of the poetry that appears in this issue, approachable and narrative driven. ... The prose, too, is approachable—a kind of reading that makes it easy to engage."
- Literary Magazine Review says "Minnetonka Review already has all the features of a more established literary review."
- The Best Creative Nonfiction chose the essay "Rock Dust" by Stan Badgett for inclusion in its third volume (Summer 2009 by W.W. Norton).
- The Best American Essays named Amy Kolen's "Moenkopi Dance" a Notable Essay of 2008.
- Literary Magazine Review's Alan Catlin writes: "There is an excellent, wide range of well-written material skillfully selected and professionally presented. Given the current economic difficulties, the editors should be commended for their courage undertaking a mission to produce a quality journal. Without new independents such as these, the future of writing would be bleak indeed. I look forward to issue number three of the Minnetonka Review."
- NewPages.com's Anne Wolfe says that "Minnetonka Review is a ride you must catch!"

I'll enjoy a one-year, two-issue subscription for $15.00, beginning with issue _____
(That will save me 37% off the current cover price)

I'll enjoy a two-year, four-issue subscription for $28.00, beginning with issue _____
(That will save me 41% off the current cover price)

Name _____

Address _____

Mail with check to:
Minnetonka Review / P.O. Box 386 / Spring Park, MN 55384